

THE ARTS ARE IN GOOD HANDS IN CENTRAL INDIANA

October 11, 2013

The Rotary Club of Indianapolis will present a panel discussion on Tuesday, October 22, 2013 with the CEOs of three of Central Indiana's most important arts and cultural organizations:

Gary Ginstling of The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra
Charles Venable of The Indianapolis Museum of Art and Tania Castroverde Moskalenko of The Center for the Performing Arts.

All three organizations have faced major challenges and have undergone significant changes in the last year, which also involved the hiring of these three individuals as CEO. The moderator will be Frank Basile, long time arts philanthropist and volunteer. In our panel discussion, they will talk about the challenges and opportunities they have been dealing with in the past year and their vision for the future for their organization and the arts and cultural community in general.

The arts panel discussion will be presented at a luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club of Indianapolis in the Scottish Rite Cathedral Ballroom, 650 North Meridian Street and is open to the public. Registration will begin at 11:30 AM and the program will begin at 12:15 PM. The price for lunch is $13 for a soup/salad bar or $15 for a hot buffet. Guests should call the Rotary Club office at 317 631.3733 to make a reservation.

Members of the media seeking more information may contact Susie Harmless, Executive Director of the Rotary Club of Indianapolis, at 317 631.3733.

- 30 -

About the Rotary Club of Indianapolis: With almost 400 members, the Rotary Club of Indianapolis is one of the largest and most active clubs in the world. Founded in 1913, the club has compiled an extensive record as one the leading supporters and contributors to the quality of life in Indianapolis. The club's membership, past and present, includes many civic leaders from the fields of commerce, medicine, law, philanthropy, education, religion and government. For further information about the Rotary Club of Indianapolis, refer to www.indyrotary.org.

Rotary Office
Historic Athenaeum
401 East Michigan Street
Indianapolis, Indiana 46204